Simple young guy willing to put in the work. First job as a waiter and got promoted to assistant manager. Where I learned the workings of how to manage a business, stock taking, customer satisfaction and the finding the line between pleasing the consumer and making the company profitable. Aimed to not limit myself to just one skill as having various skills can aid another skill.

Have a background in information technology as being interested in technology is my core trait which opened a lot of related doors such as web/app designing, video editing and game developing.
